

Brookgreen Gardens Set to Host Annual Art Festival Showcasing Local and National Artists and Artisans
June 5 – 6

MURRELLS INLET, S.C., May 27, 2021 – Brookgreen Gardens, a national historic landmark in the heart of South Carolina, is excited to announce Brookgreen Gardens Art Festival, a two-day event showcasing the fine craftsmanship of local and national artists and artisans. Paintings, sculpture, fabric art, pottery, glass, and more will be on display and available for purchase under the oaks in Brookgreen’s Live Oak Allée from June 5 – 6, 2021.

“We are thrilled to offer these talented artisans a platform to showcase their craft at the Brookgreen Art Festival,” says Page Kiniry, president and CEO of Brookgreen Gardens. “The event contributes to our overall mission to support makers both locally and across the country while also allowing our community the opportunity to discover a variety of artistic gifts. From glass artists like Annie Sinton from Delaware to woodworkers like Tim Carter from Florida, there is something for every art enthusiast.”

Over 68 vendors and artists from across the country, including local artisans, will gather under the canopy of 250-year-old live oak trees in Brookgreen Gardens’ Oak Allée. Guests can browse rows of photography, watercolor and pastel paintings, wooden sculptures, basketry, pottery and ceramics, fiber art, glass-blown designs, jewelry, metalwork, sculpture, oil, and acrylic paintings, and much more.
